<sup>1</sup> The names of the Indian authors have been transliterated according to the most common method used in India today, but the different versions will always be provided.

<sup>2</sup> The name Bannerjee can be found in Naresh Chandra Roy "Early Indian Contributors to the 'Calcutta Review'." CR 90. 1 (1944): 58. The same name is transliterated into Bannerjya in George Smith "The First Twenty Years" CR 59. 117 (1874): 229. In Classified Subject Index to the 'Calcutta Review' by Gita Chattopadhyay et al. it is converted into Bandyopadhyay (27) using the standardized specifications suggested in the IASLIC Seminar (vol. 2, 1961) which are very popular in West Bengal, but are not always adopted in other Indian states.
